CINCINNATI:
MONDAY—AUGUST 22

The High Schools.
Our two High Schools do not open until next Monday, the 29th inst.

The Second Volume of the Penny Press.
To-day our little sheet enters upon its second volume. Six months gives us age, and with it we pledge renewed devotion to the interests of the people.

Running a "Saw" on Us.
It is related as a fact that, during the very heavy rains above Pittsburg, a freshet swept the sawdust of several mills, accumulated for several years on the bank of a creek emptying into the Monongahela, and this is surmised to be one of the causes of the offensive taste to the Ohio River water.

Drinking Water Improving.
The hydrants last night discounted purer water, having been disinfected, no doubt, with the complicated scientific accounts given of the contents of the beverage. Their future supplies shall be proof against the alumnous chemist, or the mini-fying microscopist.

The People's School Rooms.
The school rooms in this city open again for the season this morning. Parents, have your clean-faced children in apple-pie order, in school, promptly at the hour. Pupils, commence school with a determination to be diligent, learn, keep good order and obey rules. Teachers, bear with dullness; rough diamonds become the jewels of the country.
Love your pupils, and birch and ferules will be but seldom needed.

Who is Champion?
PHILAN, the Billiard Emperor, has been out West, feeling his way among the experts. He played with the best one, in more ways than one. PHILAN is a man of feeling. He was taken in as guest by TREMAN, the Cincinnati Host, who was taken in by the New Yorker playing off on him. Let the real game, a game of risk in money and fame come off, then, PHILAN's competitor will find "nursing" is for babes—and PHILAN is a real champion.

"Artesian" in Cincinnati.
Will some one skilled in soils and stratas inform us if our project is practicable, to dig successfully an Artesian well on the heights above this city? A geologist informs us that Cincinati is a summit—a water-shed; and if we holed down to a vein the water would not rise high enough to secure a city supply. It would be easy for us to "run it in the ground," if we have money and the tools, but it would be a very "bare" not to have it prove useful.

The Sewing-Machine Interest of Cincinnati.
The rapidity of the growth of Cincinnati, in this branch of wealth and productiveness, defies our ability to adequately describe.
Here are, in this city, numerous depots for the sale of the machines; and families are supplied rapidly with this light artillery in the "so-so" army. The wholesale clothing business of our city has nearly two thousand machines operating to keep up abundant supplies in this market. With the raw materials the product of the needles, now mostly driven by machinery, centering in Cincinati, exceeds, in value, fifteen millions of dollars.

How Condescending!
The pious Sunday Enquirer said, yesterday,
"our little cotemporary, the PENNY PRESS, wants to copy the Covington and Newport letter list for Monday morning." A rather marveling welcome follows. Our placidtempered friend thinks the letter list a sort of literary Sunday service. Our readers make a week-day business of receiving their letters, and are content to find the list in the Monday morning's PENNY PRESS. Don't be disturbed, amiable friends of the Sunday blanket; hundreds who subscribe for the PENNY PRESS discontinue the Enquirer. A thousand readers in Covington and Newport depend on a one cent paper for the letter list.

The Working Men's Strike in London.
For nearly two years there has been a confederation of the building trades in the great English Metropolis, for the especial purpose of arranging with employers to agree on "nine hours" to be a day's work. In these leagues there are said to be upward of twenty thousand skilled artisans; and by a resolution adopted a month since, the great army of laborers are admitted as participants in the movement. If the artisans gain their point, the claims of the laborer are to be demanded.
A league has been formed, and the management of the strike is conducted by a committee of forty-two, consisting of seven delegates contributed by each of the five trades, and seven from the laborers.

Mormons Leaving Salt Lake.—The St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette mentions the arrival at that place of a number of Mormons from Salt Lake City, Utah Territory, who report that four or five thousand reconvent saints will make their exodus from the valley this summer.

Editorial and Selected Melange.
The little lads and lassies cry to-day, O, carry me back to school again,
To my pleasant school once more!
Fosdick's cut-off was not bad. He spoke of the Demos House, as Demos-the-nose, with the knives out off.
How shall the plum tree be saved from the ravages of the curculio, its persevering enemy?
On Saturday, Mr. Wm. F. Irwin, of Avondale, presented samples of his plums to the Cincinati Horticultural Society, and stated that his orchard is inclosed with a high picket fence.
(That, we suppose, is a protection against another enemy—the boys; we knew what picket-fences were for, when we were boys.) He further explains how the chickens keep off the curculios. He keeps the surface of the ground under the trees, covered with coal ashes, in which his Shanghaish and Brahmin poultry delight to wallow and dust themselves, and snap up every stray Turk of a curculio, who has temerity enough to enter their domain.
He obtained the premium for the best three varieties.

The parent says to the boys, this morning, being the opening day of the public schools—Haste thee, school-boy, haste away, Join no more the legions of play; Quickly speed your steps to school And there mind your teacher's rule.

James E. Murdock, the American Tragedian, has a snug farm near this city, in Clermont County, where he repairs at intervals, for repair; for an accomplished actor's life is one of labor, and "tired nature's sweet restorer" is rest, as well as sleep, and the rustic delights of the shelter of one's own vine and fig-tree, with the fresh home fruits and table food of a country garden of one's own, is worth all the pampered luxuries of a city. Health and relaxation to you, Murdock!

What a terrible record the station keeps.
In France, a country of more than thirty millions of people, the figures show that the same number of crimes, committed in the same mode, are reproduced, with but slight change, each year. Our Clerks of the Police Court keep in round, full hand, the sorry record of men and women breaking municipal laws, treading, as in a round, the weary tramp of impetuous passion, unrestrained indulgence in maddening drinks, disorder, crime, incarceration and deterioration in prison. Taxes are not paid as regularly to Dr. Fries, at the Treasury, as the tribute of crime is paid to Judge Lowe. The perversity, ignorance and indifference of offending men and women can be overcome, but must be done, as Professor Mansfield says, by changing the elementary conditions which produce them. As far gone, then, as this race are, parents, by means of education and virtue, can save the rising generation.

As this happy Monday morning opens, let parents devote themselves anew to the moral culture and physical education of their children.
How the beautiful morning breaks,
And each eye of slumber wakes; What so happy children makes,
As our Common Schools?

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS.—The Ohio White Sulphur Springs, owned by Andrew Wilson, Jr., has been transferred to an incorporated body.
The following-named gentlemen compose the corporation: Henry Nye, Jas. S. Clark, W. W.
Dawson, and Wilson, Jr., of this city, Lowell Fletcher, C. J. Acton, A. P. Stone, W. G.
Deshler, R. E. Neil, Jno. W. Ellis, J. G. Young, Dwight Stone, T. G. Mitchell, V. Winters, G.
E. Pugh, F. E. Squire, R. D. Harshman, T. F.
Eckert, J. A. Hunter, and S. S. Henkle.

The man borne on Blondin's back while crossing on the rope the Niagara River, a short distance below the Falls, was his agent, Henry Colcord, twenty-eight years of age, and one hundred and thirty-two pounds weight. The reporter of a Buffalo journal says of the feat: We stood by the gentlemen as they were preparing to start, and not a quiver of a muscle or a shade of fear was perceptible in either.
We were astonished at their coolness, for they had a great and perilous undertaking before them. Everything being ready, at half-past five they started; after walking a short distance they stopped; Mr. Colcord removed his arms from Mr. Blondin's neck, and his legs from their position in the iron bands, and standing upon the rope, rested for three or four minutes.
When ready to start, Mr. Colcord easily regained his position. The walking was very steady, considering that a weight of over two hundred pounds was being sustained by the rope. The time occupied in crossing was thirty-five minutes, as they rested seven times.
As they reached the American side, the excitement was intense; the performers being borne off on the shoulders of the enthusiastic crowd.
This feat which Blondin has performed was thought impossible by nearly all, for it was feared the rider would become frightened, and thus cause Blondin to lose his balance. The hanks were lined with people as far as the eye could reach—probably the crowd was greater than at any previous crossing.

Henry Ward Beecher likens the melange department of a paper to the stuffing of a Thanksgiving turkey, representing everything in the house, oysters, crusts of bread, crackers and all spices.

built of snow.

Mechanics, prepare for the Seventeenth Annual Exhibition of the Ohio Mechanics' Institute, which opens on the 1st of September, at Pike's Opera-house.
"Of earthly goods, the best is a good wife; A bad, the bitterest curse of human life."

First Lieutenant Stanford, whose death on board the United States revenue cutter Harriet Lane, to which he was attached, was mentioned a few days ago, is now believed by some of his friends to have fallen a victim to the culpability of a dentist through filling his teeth with an arsenic preparation for the purpose of killing the nerve. A rigid investigation, it is said, will be had. The remains are now in the receiving vault at Greenwood, New York, to await such action as the friends at Washington may determine to take.

NEW YORK AND ERIE RAILROAD.—The fifth mortgage bondholders of the Erie Railroad Company, having applied to their trustees to have the protection of a Receiver extended to them as well as to the fourth mortgage bondholders. Judge Ingraham, of the Supreme Court, yesterday, on the application of the Trustees, extended the receivership already existing to all the property covered by the fifth and last mortgage of the Company.

MONS. DE LAVE, the rival of Blondin, successfully crossed the Geneva Falls on a tight-rope, on Tuesday afternoon. A concourse of from eighteen to twenty thousand people witnessed the performance, and were thoroughly drenched by a severe thunder-shower, which occurred just previous to the commencement of the feat.

Penny Press in Dayton.
Our friend, Andy Francisco, of the Cincinati Penny Press, called on us yesterday. He will probably spend a day or two in Dayton. The Press has a larger circulation in this place than any other Cincinnati Daily.—Dayton Gazette.

That is not true by a good deal; but if so, then it must have about fifty more subscribers than the Dayton Daily Gazette.—Daily Empire.
It is possible we were in error in regard to the circulation of the Press, as compared with its Cincinnati competitors, but the above statement is a falsehood. The circulation of the "Dayton Daily Gazette" exceeds that of all the Cincinnati papers carried by that worthy gentleman "Carrier of Cincinnati paper." We suggest that the aforesaid be a little more cir-cumspect in his assertions, and not "pile it on quite so thick." He'll save his credit by taking heed to our kind advice.—Dayton Gazette.

Sorry, gentlemen, very sorry to have created any trouble; only went up on a friendly visit and to see how Nicholas Longworth's corn and tobacco patch was flourishing. Hope you won't quarrel any more because the Penny Press is taken by all the Daytonians, for it argues taste and discrimination on their part, and is bound to add to their moral and intellectual worth.

Dayton is the prettiest inland town in the Union, can boast of more charming girls, can raise the best tobacco (but "sorry" corn) in its corporate limits, and has the cleverest set of newspaper men we know of—for all of which reasons we hope to keep on good terms with our good-looking neighbor, and will stand by it and its institutions until the last corn is "shucked." Dayton is not fenced in.

General Cass on Naturalization Indorsed in England.
The London Mariae Chronicle, referring to the recent letter of General Cass to the American Minister at Hanover, in which he asserts the right of expatriation as one of the rights of man, says:
The occasion arises from a demand made by the Hanoverian Government on a man born in Hanover, subsequently naturalized in America, and returning by accident to the place of his birth, to undertake military service. The American Government, firmly and with justice, repudiates the claim. It would, in fact, be monstrous if a person who found the laws of a military nation at variance with his views, could not, by renouncing its protection, absolve himself from its claim. At the same time the constant and increasing migration of individuals from their own to other countries renders it highly advisable that no doubt should exist in the matter, and the right should be defined and acknowledged by every nation in the world. More than once serious difficulties have arisen from a want of clear understanding on this head, a reference to the mutual position of French and British subjects.
Instances have occurred lately when Frenchmen naturalized in England have claimed the protection of the French law; and, on the other hand, that same law has been attempted to be put in force against them. Neither party seem fairly to have understood their position.
Moreover the process of naturalization ought not to be left to the mere caprice of the American States. The question is one which ought to be treated by general accord, and until that is done we cannot hope to escape occasional entanglements, all the more annoying because they might be so easily avoided.

Murder on the Plains.
We learn from a young printer, Mr. J. C.
Campbell, who arrived in this city yesterday from Denver, that a most cold-blooded murder was perpetrated about the first of August, twelve miles beyond Bijou Creek, on the Platte, and some ninety miles from Denver.
The particulars, we are informed, are as follows: A train from Hickory County, Mo., consisting of seven persons—five men, one woman, and a boy—were on their way to the mines, and the fact being understood that the owner of the stock and wagons, who was one of the party, had in his possession nearly $2,000, which he intended using for mining purposes, they resolved to murder and rob him.
The boy was made the instrument by which to execute their fiendish object. He shot the man with a pistol, in the presence of the whole party, the ball passing through his left lung.
The deed being accomplished, and having possessed themselves of all his effects, they started for Denver, leaving the unfortunate man to die on the spot. The party to which Mr. Campbell belonged, found him next morning on the point of death, and were only able to glean the foregoing before he expired. Intelligence was sent to Denver of the transaction, and the assassins are probably under arrest by this time. Our informant had forgotten the murdered man's name, but says that he is a Santaph resident in Hickory County.—St. Joseph Gazette, August 18.

The New York Herald publishes voluminous statements of the number of messages which passed over the Atlantic Cable, which shows that from the 10th of August to the 15th of September, one hundred and twenty-nine messages were sent from Valencia to New Foundland, while the number sent from New Foundland to Valencia, during the same time, was one hundred and seventy-one. The total, four hundred, both ways. This statement is verified on each before R. B. Campbell, U. S.
Consul at London.

QUEST BY TELEGRAPH.
REPORTED FOR THE PENNY PRESS.
From Washington.
WASHINGTON, August 20.—Certified copies of the approved lists of the land granted to Michigan for railroad purposes, under the act of June, 1836, embracing nearly six hundred and fourteen thousand acres, have been transmitted to the government of that State.
The charge against Major Edward French, pay clerk of the Bureau of Construction of the Treasury Department, is for falsely making and forging certificates and receipts for the purpose of obtaining money from the United States.
His arrest was made yesterday, but not until after consultation between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Solicitor of the Treasury, District Attorney Ould and Major Bowman, giving the accused an opportunity to explain.
The affair created much gossip here. The extent of the alleged defalcation has not been ascertained.

River News.
St. Louis, August 21.—P. M.—The river continues to recede at this point, and all the upper streams are falling. The Illinois has but twenty-eight inches on the bar. The Missouri about three feet and a half in the channel and three feet and a half on the Lower Rapids in the Upper Mississippi. There is scant six feet from here to Cairo. Weather clear and very pleasant.

Indian Difficulties.
St. Louis, August 21.—The Los Angeles Star says that on the 21st ult, two hundred Mojave Indians attacked a party of whites at Beale's Crossing, and carried off a number of mules, and a large quantity of provisions belonging to the Stockton and Kansas City Mail Company. Major Armstrong, with two companies of troops, left Fort Mojave for the Mojave villages, intending to chastise the Indians, and in the event of their absence to burn their huts and destroy their crops.

Duel between Wise and Ould.
WASHINGTON, August 20.—Mr. O. Jennings Wise, of the Richmond Enquirer, and Mr.
Ould, of the Richmond Examiner, eluded the vigilance of the police, and early this morning left Washington for Maryland, to settle a new-paper quarrel by a duel. The parties returned between twelve and one o'clock this afternoon, having discharged two shots. Neither were hurt, and the matter here rests for the present.

Later from New Mexico.
NEW ORLEANS, August 20.—The schooner Star is below, with advices from Vera Cruz to the 14th inst., and $100,000 in specie. Political affairs in Mexico are unchanged, and nothing of importance has transpired since the last advices.

Destructive Fire.
PHILADELPHIA, August 20.—The sewing-machine manufactory of George B. Sloat & Co. was burnt to the ground this morning.
The fire was the work of an incendiary.
There is an insurance of $30,000 on the property destroyed.

From Leavenworth.
LEAVENWORTH, August 20.—There has as yet been no confirmation of the recently-reported Indian battle in the South. The report is believed to have been greatly exaggerated or an unmitigated hoax.

Republican Nominations.
DAYTON, August 20.—The Republicans have nominated E. A. Parrott and J. M.
Cover for Representatives to the Legislature, D. P. Read for Prosecuting Attorney, and D.
C. Rench for Treasurer.

Congressional Nominations.
NEW ORLEANS, August 20.—The Americans have nominated J. E. Boulligny, to Congress, from this District.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE ABOVE IN-the public when you sent your Agent out with misrepresentations to induce parties to take scholarship in your Institution? Or, as you have so suddenly become desirous for the public welfare, why do you attempt to distress the hundreds of innocent persons that took scholarship in your Institution, under the belief that you would in good faith carry out the representations made by you, through your Agent, though not possessed of a surplus of worldly goods, I have managed, so far, to pay all honest claims against me, but I have neither money nor charity for an institution that preaches deceit to obtain funds.
